PATRON PRIVACY POLICY

Any information that could reasonably be used to identify you is considered personally identifiable information. This includes, but is not limited to:

- Your name
- Your address
- Your email address
- Your Social Security number
- Your password
- Bank account information
- Credit card information
- Any combination of data that could be used to identify you such as your birth date, your zip code and your gender.

Furthermore, the library subscribes to the Code of Ethics of the American Library Association.

Section III of the Code of Ethics states:

“We protect each library user's right to privacy and confidentiality with respect to information sought or received and resources consulted, borrowed, acquired or transmitted.”

It is the policy of the Library that the privacy of all library patrons shall be respected by all employees of the University. Without a court order, the Library will not reveal any of the aforementioned information.

The Library is not responsible for the privacy practices or the content of external web sites or the University network to which we are linked.
