DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS,

I am pleased to report that on May 2 at the spring commencement, JSU awarded 729 degrees, our largest class ever! This month we will begin welcoming our incoming fall freshman class at summer Gamecock Orientation sessions. It is a great time to be a Gamecock!

In this edition of the Gem, you will be introduced to Dr. Alicia Simmons who directs our CORE initiative and in the process, learn more about our CORE partnership and how our relationship with the K-12 systems in Northeast Alabama is evolving in an innovative and collaborative way.

Given the national spotlight on sports and sporting events, we believe now is the right time to put a sports injury prevention program into action. Read about JSU's partnership with Dr. James Andrews for this new program on page 14.

As always, JSU athletics are in the spotlight. Read about Coach Rick Pietri's outstanding first season as the women's basketball coach and meet our new volleyball coach, Terry Gamble in the sports section starting on page 8.

Football has a new leader in coach John Grass and our baseball and softball coaches reached record wins this season. We are looking forward to another exciting season of Gamecock sports.

As we do once a year, this edition features the JSU Honor Roll of Contributors from the previous calendar year. We thank all those who have helped support our institution and programs throughout the years. Your generosity continues to make a profound impact on our university and the students that we serve. On page 4 you will see some of our generous scholarship donors and their recipients who joined us for our annual Founders Day luncheon in February.

As always, we hope you enjoy this edition of the Gem. We hope to see you back on campus for Homecoming on November 1, if not before.

Sincerely,

William A. Meehan

JSU Celebrates Founders Day

Jacksonville State University began as a state normal school in 1883. In February, students, alumni and donors celebrated JSU’s rich tradition at the annual scholarship luncheon on campus. At the event, scholarship donors were introduced to their recipients and learned how their generous donations were making a difference in their recipient’s life. In 2013, the JSU Foundation awarded over $400,000 to deserving JSU students. ☹

ASSUMES POSITION OF JSU ASSOCIATE VICE PRESIDENT FOR EDUCATIONAL TECHNOLOGY AND SUPPORT

On January 2, Dr. Joe Walsh assumed the position of associate vice president for educational technology and support for Jacksonville State University.

Dr. Walsh comes to JSU from the University of Montevallo where he served as a professor of educational technology and the director of the Malone Center for Creative Teaching, Learning, & Technology.

He is a two-time graduate of the University of Memphis, with a Master of Science in curriculum and instruction ('93) and a Doctor of Education in instructional design and technology ('96). For nearly two decades, Dr. Walsh's research has focused on the use of technology to enhance teaching and learning. He has published widely in his field, made numerous national and international presentations, and worked with a wide range of P-12 schools and school districts in Alabama.

In addition to working with highly impressive colleagues and being made to feel very welcome by the "friendliest campus in the South," Dr. Walsh says that his favorite part of being at JSU is its focus on students. "Creating meaningful opportunities for students to learn and grow seems to be the top priority on this campus, and every decision is made with careful consideration of its impact on JSU students. That's not always the case in higher education, and it makes me extremely proud to be part of a university so deeply committed to its students' best interests."

Dr. Walsh enjoys reading and traveling and is the proud father of "two of the world's best teenage sons", Adrian and Julian. 📱

MASTER OF POLITICAL SCIENCE AND PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION REACHES SIGNIFICANT BENCHMARK

BY EMIL LOEKEN

Jacksonville State University's Master of Public Administration program (MPA) has received accreditation by the internationally recognized National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration (NASPAA).

The Commission on Peer Review and Accreditation (COPRA), the accrediting arm of NASPAA, found JSU's MPA program to be in conformity with NASPAA Standards, accrediting the program for a period of seven years.

NASPAA Standards are the quality benchmark used by graduate public service programs around the world. According to the organization, NASPAA's accreditation process is mission-based and driven by public service values. With the accreditation, NASPAA requires JSU's MPA program to contribute to the knowledge, research, and practice of public service, establish observable goals and outcomes, and use information about the program's performance to guide its improvement. Dr. Dan Krejci, associate professor and director of the MPA program, is proud of the important benchmark.

"The quality of the education and the curriculum we offer our students is on par with any universities in the United States that are NASPAA accredited, including your larger metropolitan universities," Dr. Krejci said. "We are one of five universities in Alabama to currently hold this prestigious accreditation."

Being awarded the NASPAA accreditation has been far from an easy project. "It has been a five-year process starting in 2008 when I became the director of the MPA program. We have been through two self-studies, providing as much as 1,300 pages worth of documentation demonstrating how we meet the standards of NASPAA," Dr. Krejci said. "Now, with the accreditation granted, we must work hard to maintain it. Every year we have to provide a maintenance report, illustrating how the program moves forward with its plans, how we continue to recruit and retain minority faculty and females in our organization, what we are doing to evaluate our curriculum, what percentage of classes we are teaching, etc."

Dr. Krejci is grateful for the faculty's ongoing commitment to the program. "The faculty, both public administration and concentration, did a fantastic job during the accreditation process and deserves the greatest acknowledgement. We could not exist without their help," Dr. Krejci said. "I am very proud of them and grateful for their assistance in finishing the task of moving the program forward towards accreditation which Dr. Lawson Veasey, Dr. Bill Lester, and I started in fall 2005."

The MPA is a professional program designed for students who are looking for administrative careers in federal, state, and local government agencies as well as non-profit organizations. The program is also designed for those who are already in the public administration field and who are looking to extend their knowledge or enhance their promotion possibilities with a graduate degree.

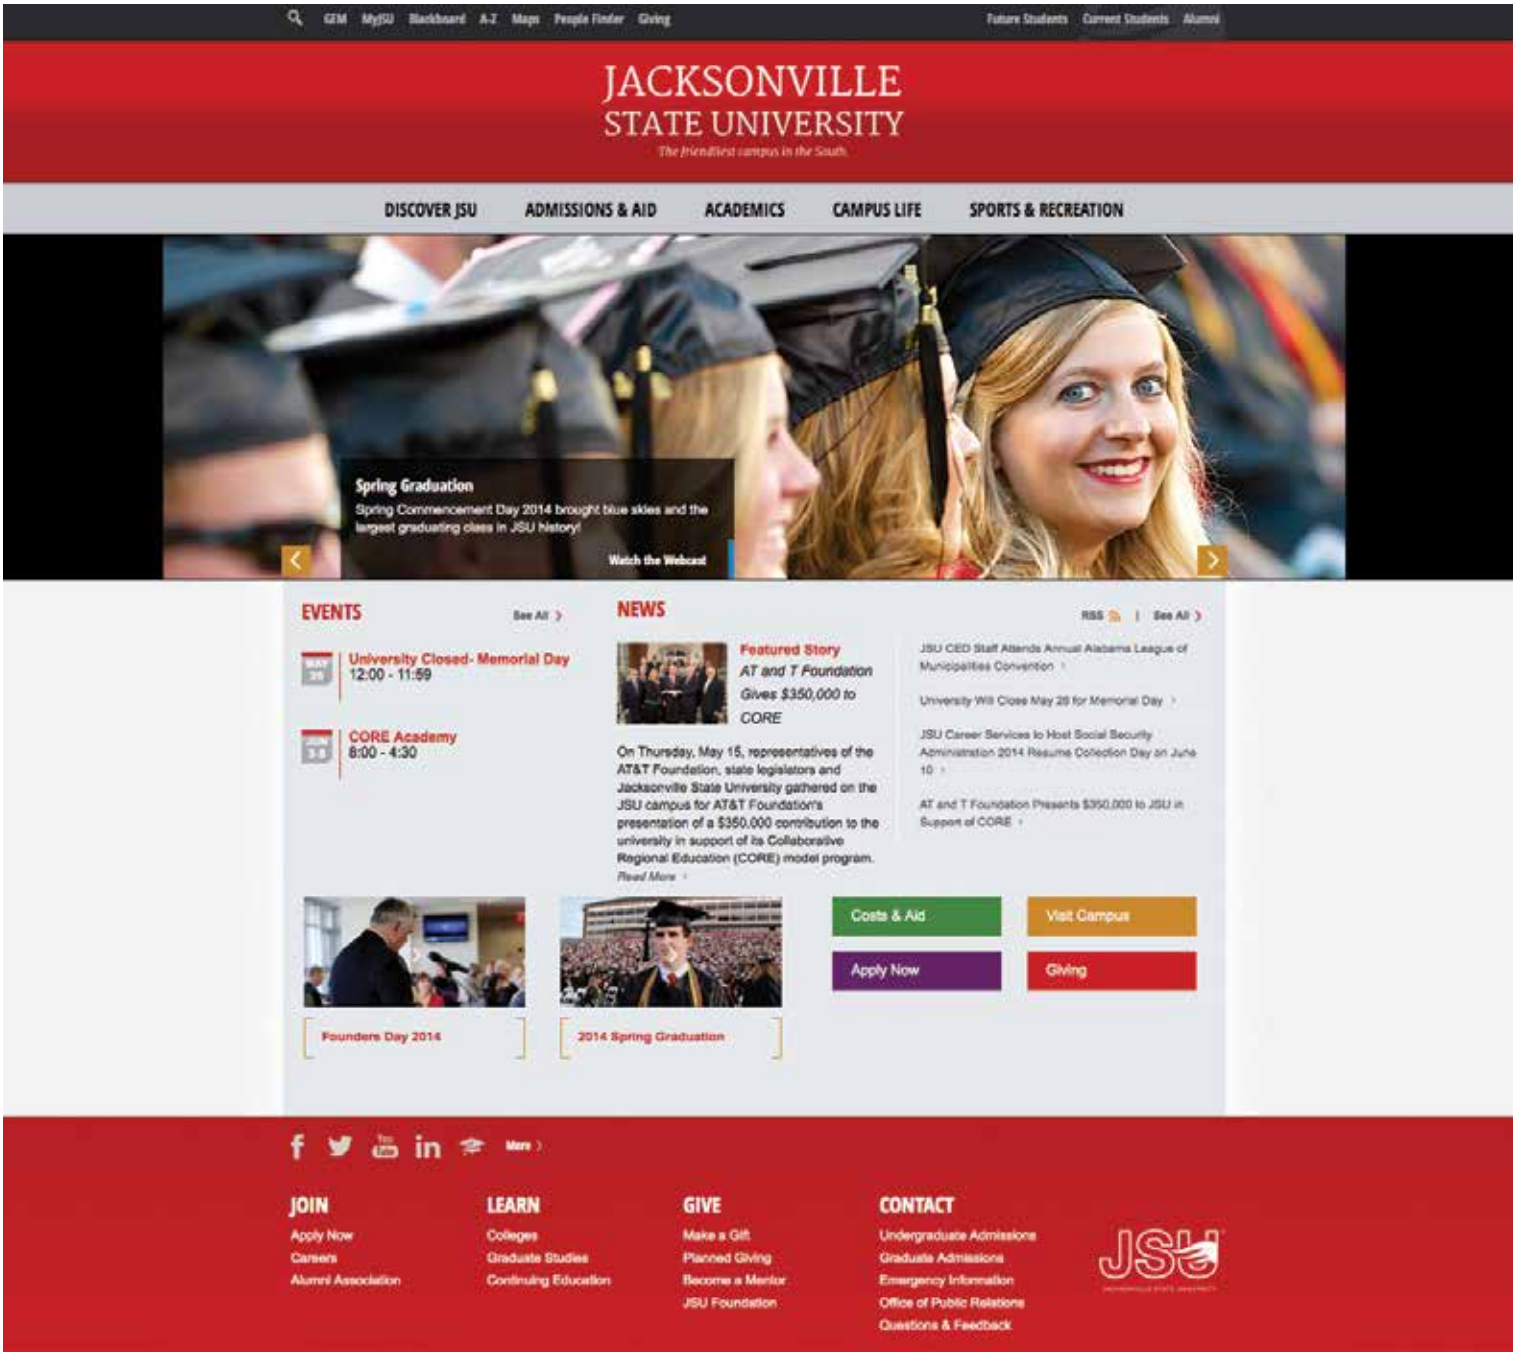

According to Dr. Krejci, the program offered at JSU allows students to choose a concentration that is most appropriate to their career goals.

"We offer concentrations in the following areas: administrative management, criminal justice, education, emergency management, environmental science management, geographical information systems, and political science," Dr. Krejci said. "Our concentrations are certainly the backbone of our program."

Of the concentrations, five can be completed on-line: administrative management, criminal justice, education, emergency management, and geographical information systems.

After leading Jacksonville State women’s basketball to one of its best seasons in recent history, JSU Head Coach Rick Pietri was honored by the Ohio Valley Conference with the 2014 OVC Coach of the Year award, as voted by the league’s head coaches and sports information directors.

Pietri, brought to Jacksonville to change the culture in the women’s basketball program, engineered a monumental turnaround from a season ago. After posting a 1-27 season in 2012-13, the Gamecocks turned in a 14-18 overall mark in 2013-14 – a plus-13 win total from a year ago with eight scholarship players.

After starting OVC play with four consecutive losses, Pietri stayed the course and guided JSU to eight wins in the last twelve games to finish the OVC slate at 8-8 and a spot in the 2014 OVC Women’s Basketball Tournament, where the Gamecocks advanced to the semi-finals.

It marked the best finish for JSU since joining the Ohio Valley Conference in 2003-04.

The New Orleans, La.-native is the second JSU women’s basketball coach to receive a league’s yearly coaching award. Former Gamecock and then head coach from 1993-03, Dana Austin earned the 1997 Trans America Athletic Conference Coach of the Year honor. Pietri is the first JSU women’s hoops mentor to win the honor since the Gamecocks joined the OVC.

The honor is the first of his fourteen year collegiate coaching career, but Pietri is no stranger to honors throughout his entire coaching career. He has earned multiple postseason honors while coaching in the Alabama high school ranks. He was a six-time Mobile (Ala.) County Private School Coach of the Year while on the coast. Pietri was named the 1998 5A State Coach of the Year by the Alabama

Sports Writers Association and was also named the Press Register Coach of the Year for Southwest Alabama each season he coached at B.C. Rain (1994-98).

Under Pietri this season, the Gamecocks turned in an 8-6 mark in its fourteen home games, the best home court mark since it won eleven games in 2003-04 and in 2004-05. The Gamecocks posted six league wins at Pete Mathews Coliseum - the most since 2005-06. JSU won five consecutive home OVC games for the first time ever as a member of the league and the first time since 2003-04 when JSU was a member of the Trans America Athletic Conference.

JSU split the season series with four OVC East foes. After falling on the road at Tennessee State, Eastern Kentucky and Belmont, the Gamecocks were able to avenge the setbacks with wins at home over those programs.🏀

Jacksonville State University named John Grass as the new head football coach in January.

Grass served as the Gamecocks' assistant head coach and offensive coordinator in 2013 and orchestrated an offense that set numerous school, OVC and national records. He replaced Bill Clark, who resigned to take the head coaching vacancy at UAB.

A 1990 graduate of JSU, Grass joined Clark's staff in 2013 after serving as a head coach at the high school level for over seventeen years and compiling a 122-61 career record along the way.

His first season at JSU exceeded all expectations. His offensive unit was the most prolific in JSU history, breaking school records en route to helping the Gamecocks post an 11-4 record and advance to the quarterfinals of the FCS playoffs. JSU rolled over No. 16 Samford, 55-14, in the first round before a convincing 31-10 win at No. 6 MicNeese State in the second round.

After a loss at No. 3 Eastern Washington in the Quarterfinals, the Gamecocks were ranked No. 10 in The Sports Network FCS Top 25, the highest in the program's Division I history, while a No. 12 ranking in the FCS Coaches Poll tied the previous high set in 2010. The Gamecocks finished the year with an 11-4 record, the most wins in the program's Division I history and tying the 1977 team for the fourth-most wins in a season in school history.

Grass' offense was record breaking in every phase and highlighted a season that saw the Gamecocks set a total of forty-nine school records, thirteen Ohio Valley Conference records and three NCAA records.

Using a quick-strike attack that scored twenty-four times on drives of less than one minute, the Gamecock offense amassed 6,637 yards of total offense, 1,755 yards more than any team in school history, and racked up 528 points, 107 more than the previous record set in 1991. JSU's sixty-five touchdowns were a new school record, while its school record forty-eight rushing touchdowns also broke the OVC mark.

Leading the rushing attack was junior All-American DaMarcus James. Also a first team All-OVC selection, James ran for a school record 1,477 yards and was second nationally with twenty-nine rushing touchdowns to break the JSU and OVC records in that category. James' 174 points scored also broke the previous JSU and OVC records.

James also set a JSU and OVC record with five rushing touchdowns at Austin Peay and joined teammates Eli Jenkins, Troymaine Pope and Miles Jones, to become the first foursome to each run for one hundred yards in the same game in FCS history against Jacksonville on September 7.

The ground game wasn't the only thing that guided the Gamecocks in 2013. Despite having to start three different starting quarterbacks because of injuries during the season, Grass' offense threw for a school record 3,033 yards. Quarterback Eli Jenkins earned Freshman All-America honors after throwing for 887 yards and running for 953 more, while junior Max Shortell threw for 1,608 yards to earn Second Team All-OVC recognition.

Freshman receiver Josh Barge was also a Freshman All-American after setting new JSU freshman records for catches (58) and receiving yards (885). He led a corps of nineteen different JSU players to catch at least one pass during the season.

Prior to coming to JSU in 2013, Grass was head coach at Oxford High School from 2008-2012, where he posted five straight winning seasons and a 41-16 record. He helped the Yellow Jackets reach the playoffs four out of the five seasons he was there, including the school's first-ever appearance in the Alabama High School Athletic Association Class 6A State semifinals in 2011.

While serving as head coach at Spain Park High School from 2006-2007, Grass was named the 2007 AHSAA Class 6A Coach of the Year after leading his team to the state championship game. Grass led his team against Clark's Prattville squad in that Class 6A State championship as Prattville claimed a 14-0 win.

Grass coached at Moody High School from 2003-2005, where he took over a team that had won six games in the previous six years before he took control. In 2004, he led his team to the 2004 Class 4A quarterfinals for the first time in school history.

From 2002-2003, Grass was head coach at Albertville High School, a school that had won five games in the three years before he took over, and led them to the 2002 Class 5A quarterfinals. While at Albertville, Grass was named the 2002 Class 5A Coach of the Year.

Grass spent two seasons as the offensive coordinator for Hoover High School from 2000-2001. He ran an offense that posted an impressive 28-2 record during his two seasons, including the 2000 Class 6A State Championship and an appearance in the State Championship again in 2001.

Grass's first head coaching job came at Ashville High School, where he coached from 1995-1999. He guided his team to back-to-back postseason appearances for the first time in school history in 1998 and 1999, including the school's first-ever 10-0 regular season record in 1999.

Grass also served as an assistant coach at Eufaula High School and Ashville High School. While at Eufaula High School from 1993-1994, he served as defensive coordinator and strength and conditioning coach while helping the school reach the 5A quarterfinals in 1993.

He began his coaching career at Ashville High School from 1990-1992, where he served as offensive coordinator and strength and conditioning coach. While at Ashville, he helped the school reach the state semifinals for the first time in school history.

Grass graduated from Jacksonville State in 1990 with a degree in physical education. He received a Master of Physical Education from JSU in 1997 and an EdS in administration in 2010 from Lincoln Memorial University. He is married to Jada Arnold Grass '94, and they have three children, Jud (11), Jules (8) and Jace (5).

SOFTBALL & BASEBALL COACHES REACH RECORD WINS

Jacksonville State head softball coach Jana McGinnis won her 700th game at JSU on March 15 in a doubleheader sweep of Tennessee Tech at University Field. In her twenty-first season at the helm of the Gamecocks' softball program, McGinnis reached another milestone in a career that has seen her claim seven Ohio Valley Conference championships, two Atlantic Sun championships, six NCAA Regional appearances and one NCAA Super Regional appearance. Just the second coach in program history, she has coached eight conference players of the year, six NFCA all-region players, 103 all-conference players and 144 academic all-conference players. She has been named conference coach of the year four times, once in the A-Sun and three times in the OVC.

Jacksonville State baseball became the first team in the history of the Ohio Valley Conference to win six-straight elimination games to win the OVC Conference Championship, the fourth under head coach Jim Case. After losing 2-1 in the opening game to fall into the elimination bracket, JSU reeled off six straight wins - the longest winning streak of the season - to eliminate every single team in this year's tournament. The Gamecocks defeated SIU-Edwardsville (7-5), and then won two nine-inning games beating Eastern Illinois (13-2) and Morehead State (7-1). The Gamecocks went on to win two more nine-inning games defeating No. 1 Southeast Missouri (6-2) and No. 2 Tennessee Tech (10-7) to force the if necessary game the following day, where the Gamecocks defeated Tennessee Tech 4-2. JSU also won the OVC Tournament Championship in 2004, 2006 and 2010. 🏐

RIFLE TEAM WINS OVC CHAMPIONSHIP

The Jacksonville State rifle team won its eighth Ohio Valley Conference Championship and it also was the third straight OVC title for the Gamecocks. The JSU rifle team also made its thirteenth trip to the NCAA Championship - the fourth straight - and finished seventh in the NCAA Championships. The Gamecocks are coached by Ron Frost. 🏐

NEW SPORTS INJURY PREVENTION PROGRAM

BY JACK CROWE AND TARRAN VAILLANCOURT, COACHSAFELY

Sports injuries are a widespread issue. In fact, over 5.5 million children experience a sports injury each year. This may not seem that surprising – you may remember getting injured as a child on your local sports team of choice. The news is peppered with stories on sports injuries lately, from NFL lawsuits and payouts, to local articles about your hometown star. The impact sports injuries have on a community is a big one.

High school athletes alone suffer two million injuries, a half million doctor visits and thirty thousand hospitalizations each year. More than half (62%) of the time, organized sports-related injuries occur during practices. And in remote, rural settings, this often means visits to the ER instead of a sports injury trained medical professional. In fact, emergency room visits from youth sports injuries rack up nearly $1 billion each year, according to SafeKids.org. The encouraging news is health experts say that over 60% of these injuries are preventable with proper education.

Jacksonville State University is proud to announce a plan to help combat youth sports injuries: the JSU Sports Medicine Education Initiative. JSU is working closely with Andrews Research and Education Institute (AREI), STOP Sports Injuries, Protecting Athletes and Sports Safety (PASS), and others to bring together sports medicine experts and professional educators to develop a robust sports medicine education program.

The vision of the initiative is to develop best practices to help reduce the incidence of head related injuries, heat related injuries, sudden cardiac arrest, and over training/overuse injuries in young athletes. The goal is to teach the necessary skills to recognize the symptoms associated with these common injuries and the appropriate action to take if the symptoms are observed. In addition, the skills necessary to develop and implement an emergency action plan will be taught. To accomplish these goals, a series of online courses are being developed by JSU in collaboration with AREI and other partners. The initial course will focus on junior high and high school coaches. Other courses will follow focusing on parks and recreation coaches and parents. JSU plans to embed the content in undergraduate and graduate physical education courses for prospective coaches. Upon completion of a course, the participant (excluding parents) will take an examination in order to become certified in sports medicine education.

According to Dr. John Hammett, dean of the College of Education and Professional Studies at JSU, “the result of combining the expertise in pedagogy offered by JSU and the content knowledge of Dr. Andrews and his colleagues should be an effective sports medicine educational program. The uniqueness of the program is it targets the parent as well as the coach. We believe parents are an integral part of the solution to reducing sports injury since parents know their child better than anyone else does.” Hammett also states that, “other unique features of the program are the organization of the content, method of delivery, and the available certification.”

“We are pleased to work with JSU on this sports injury prevention initiative. AREI is involved in various research projects on this very topic; it’s refreshing to work with a well known university like JSU on a course to help reduce sports injuries,” said Dr. James Andrews, founder and president of the Andrews Institute. “The stats around preventable sports injuries are staggering. We are looking forward to building best practices in sports injury prevention with JSU as our partner.”

JSU president, Dr. William A. Meehan noted, “Given the national spotlight on sports and sporting events, we believe now is the right time to put a sports injury prevention program into action. I’m proud JSU is setting the stage for other education institutes around the country to address this issue. It is extremely important to educate athletes, at every age, parents, coaches and teachers about how to prevent sports injuries.”

The initial course for P-12 coaches is scheduled to be launched in fall 2014. The course for parks and recreation coaches and parents will follow. We imagine high school coaches and administrators, youth sports coaches and administrators, and parents will be very interested in the key elements of this course.

CoachSafely is working closely with JSU and AREI to advocate youth sports injury prevention. For more information on its mission or the JSU course, please contact CoachSafely PR Director, Tarran Vaillancourt at tarran@tarranllc.com.

CORE Program to go National

WITH $11.67 MILLION FEDERAL GRANT

BY ANGIE FINLEY

IT WAS QUITE POSSIBLY THE BEST GIFT DR. ALICIA SIMMONS COULD HAVE RECEIVED ON THAT FRIDAY AFTERNOON LAST DECEMBER AS THE JACKSONVILLE STATE UNIVERSITY CAMPUS WAS EMPTYING FOR THE HOLIDAYS. A DING FROM HER INBOX SIGNALLED TO THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR IN THE OFFICE OF PLANNING AND RESEARCH/INSTITUTE FOR RESEARCH AND COLLABORATION THAT SHE HAD AN INCOMING MESSAGE. IN THAT ONE MESSAGE, YEARS OF HARD WORK PAID OFF IN THE FORM OF AN $11.67 MILLION GRANT FROM THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION'S HIGHLY COMPETITIVE INVESTING IN INNOVATION (I3) PROGRAM.

The award was for a proposal Dr. Simmons and her team had submitted months earlier to validate and expand JSU's Collaborative Regional Education (CORE) comprehensive model, an already successful program that brings technology to high-need, rural classrooms with the goal of improving college and work readiness among 8th-12th grade students. The grant is for a five-year period and included a $1.2 million match requirement, which was quickly exceeded by roughly $700,000 due to some very enthusiastic national partners: the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU); the Council for Aid to Education; and the National Repository of Online Courses (NROC). ICF International will serve as the grant evaluator.

The CORE model integrates technology in classrooms and provides teachers with professional development that prepares them to use technology as a tool to support individualized learning. Other components include partnership building, classroom support, dual enrollment and change management.

The i3 grant will build upon what has already been established for CORE, with the long-term goal of implementing the program nationwide. There is also a strong research and assessment component, as participants will be followed and data will be collected throughout the life of the grant.

One of the most exciting benefits of the grant, according to Dr. Simmons, is the addition of CORE Scholars, which will provide five hundred dual enrollment scholarships per year during the first three years of the grant. Dual enrollment allows high school students to take college courses and earn credit toward a degree while they are still in high school.

"Our data tells us that first time freshman who took at least one dual enrollment course at JSU have an eighty-five percent first-year retention rate, seventeen points higher than all JSU first-time freshmen, so we know that dual enrollment has a very positive impact on student success," she says.

"As a result of this grant, we will be recruiting students, particularly students who might not otherwise be able to pay for dual enrollment courses."

To further understand the impact of the grant on the future of CORE, one must first take a look back, at CORE's beginnings.

A component of JSU's Institute for Research and Collaboration, CORE began in 2010 as a partnership between Jacksonville State University and Piedmont City Schools. Armed with the knowledge that the future success of students required 21st Century skills as well as a new approach to teacher education, the educational institutions were transforming classrooms at all levels "from the inside out," according to Dr. Simmons. From this nucleus grew a partnership of eighteen public school systems and three private school systems representing 72,600 students, or almost ten percent of all Alabama public school students.

The first CORE workshop, which took place at JSU in November 2012, hosted seventy attendees from these part-ner schools. These educators discussed the CORE model and helped fine-tune the CORE vision. Two months later, in January 2013, the second CORE workshop took place. There, partners discussed and demonstrated how they used technology in their classrooms. By early June, when the inaugural CORE Academy took place on the JSU campus, 273 participants including teachers, superintendents and other school systems staff joined JSU faculty and staff to discuss and learn more about teaching with technology, collaborative classrooms, Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) initiatives and implementation, and learning management systems. Dr. Mark Milliron, a nationally recognized speaker on the topic of educational innovation, delivered the keynote.

Fast forward several months, to January 2014. After the December grant award, the team that put together the grant application—Dr. Simmons, Lynn Garner and Allison Newton—had little time to rest on their accomplishment. By the time classes resumed after the holidays, the grant period had kicked in. Dr. Simmons and her team hit the ground running.

Some will also receive iPads. These teachers will return throughout the summer and fall for additional training and support. In August, there will be a CORE assessment data collection workshop for the participants.

On June 3-5, JSU will host the second annual CORE Academy. Anticipated attendance is five hundred teachers, administrators, curriculum directors, special education coordinators and others interested in technology and practical implementation methodologies for the classroom.

As year one winds down, the work will have only just begun. Year two calls for expansion of the program and the next step on the journey to nationwide CORE integration, the recruitment of additional universities to serve as CORE incubators.

In addition to Dr. Simmons, who serves as project director, the grant management team consists of Garner, project manager; and Nina King, assistant project director.

Among the first items on the to-do list were working with i3 staff in Washington to handle grant specifics, hiring the ten staff members needed to manage components of the grant, and planning a meeting of the partners, which took place March 19-21 at JSU.

Also on the JSU campus that week were nearly seventy CORE school system representatives, who converged on JSU's Stadium Tower on March 20 for a Learning Management Systems Workshop. The free, full-day workshop focused on software and building curriculum. In addition to technology presentations by their peers, the teachers were able to meet some of the partners who have demonstrated their commitment to CORE.

The presence of all these entities on the JSU campus together was one more reminder of why CORE exists.

"Everything is about collaboration; we couldn't have done any of this without our wonderful partners and staff," says Dr. Simmons.

"This project is really about the excitement of everyone who is involved in education in our state. It is transformative, and it allows us to be leaders in education, not only in our region and state, but nationally," she adds.

What is next for CORE? In April, CORE grant evaluator ICF International will draw a sample of sixty-six teachers from the original CORE participating rural school systems to determine who will be part of the CORE study. Of the participants, half will be the active group and half will be the control. All will get funding for their classrooms. Also in April, students in these classrooms will begin taking the College and Work Readiness Assessment (CWRA).

In mid-May, the teachers selected to be part of the CORE study group will come to JSU for training, where they will be issued a MacBook laptop computer.

$350,000 AT&T GRANT TO JSU IN SUPPORT OF CORE

Recently, representatives of the AT&T Foundation, state legislators and Jacksonville State University gathered on the JSU campus for AT&T Foundation's presentation of a $350,000 contribution to the university in support of its Collaborative Regional Education (CORE) model program. After the presentation at Bibb Graves Hall, the delegation visited nearby Ramona Wood Building to meet CORE teachers, who were on campus to receive technology and instruction.

Fred McCallum, AT&T Alabama state president, made the presentation for the AT&T Foundation. Also in attendance were State Senator Gerald Dial and State Representative K.L. Brown, along with executive leadership from AT&T and the university.

"AT&T is proud to support JSU as the university expands student learning and technology capabilities in rural classrooms here in Alabama," said McCallum. "Working together, we can increase college and career readiness of high school students throughout the state and put them on a path to future success."

On behalf of JSU, CORE staff, and local, state and national partners, Dr. Alicia Simmons, executive director for Planning and Research/Institute for Research and Collaboration and project director of the CORE i3 grant, thanked the AT&T Foundation for the generous contribution to the CORE i3 initiative.

"The enthusiasm for the Collaborative Regional Education (CORE) initiative is infectious and we welcome AT&T as a generous benefactor that understands the importance of working together to better prepare our students for college and career," said Dr. Simmons. "This gift will be put to good use as we learn from each other through professional development, teacher support and technology."

State Senator Gerald Dial added, "With an increasingly global economy, it is crucial that we make sure our students have access to the technologies that will allow them to compete. I'm excited to see this program going strong right here at home."

State Representative K.L. Brown, who lives in Jacksonville, added, "I'm so proud to see our hometown university making a difference in the lives of Alabama students. This type of program will make a real difference in the future of our state."

$25,000 REGIONS SCHOLARSHIP

REGIONS BANK GIVES TO BUSINESS STUDENTS

Regions Bank recently gifted the university $25,000 for a scholarship benefiting an incoming business student. This scholarship will support the recipient for a period of four years, giving $6,250 annually.

“Jacksonville State University is a cornerstone of our community,” said Linda Jenkins, Anniston City president of Regions Bank. “It is a privilege to support the academic outreach of a local university that has a major impact across the state and around the world. Regions Bank is committed to supporting education, and this scholarship will help a deserving student receive the tools needed to achieve success in the years to come.”

Bill Horton, the North Central Alabama president of Regions Bank, signed the scholarship. Horton received his bachelor’s degree from Jacksonville State University and is a graduate of the Graduate School of Banking at Louisiana State University. He has been with Regions for forty years and serves on the board of directors of the Lakeshore Foundation, Birmingham Education Foundation, and Big Brothers Big Sisters of Greater Birmingham. He is also involved with numerous other civic and community organizations.

Of the opportunity to give back to his alma mater, Horton said, “A quality education is the foundation of success. For more than 125 years, Jacksonville State University has given students that foundation by not only teaching essential skills, but also fostering a commitment to integrity, service and leadership. Regions Bank believes in the mission of JSU, and we are honored to help support academic excellence in our home state. Regions values its relationship with JSU, and we look forward to building on our support in the years to come.”

$300,000 ALABAMA POWER GRANT

BOOSTS APPLIED ENGINEERING PROGRAMS

Soon, students in Jacksonville State University’s applied engineering programs will have the opportunity to learn and work on equipment comparable to what they will use in modern manufacturing facilities, thanks to a very generous grant from Alabama Power Foundation.

In January, the foundation announced that it would donate $300,000, which will be used to develop a series of industrial robotics cells to replace the fifteen year-old educational robot units currently in use.

“The department bought its first robots in the mid-’90s, but these robots were designed specifically for educational settings,” explains Terry Marbut, head of JSU’s Department of Technology and Engineering. “The Alabama Power Foundation donation will allow us to replace these dated educational systems with state of the market industrial equipment needed to ensure that we are continuing to prepare students to meet the needs of Alabama’s manufacturing industries.”

JSU’s technology and engineering department has three academic majors: Applied Manufacturing Engineering, Applied Electronics Engineering and Occupational Safety and Health Management. Students in the applied engineering programs learn to use the latest industrial manufacturing technology, which will ready them for the jobs that await them after graduation.

And those jobs are definitely available. Graduates of JSU’s applied engineering programs are in high demand with placement rates above ninety percent and starting salaries among the highest of any degree program on campus. Graduates are typically employed within manufacturing organizations in Alabama and the surrounding region. Local employers that seek to hire JSU graduates include Honda Manufacturing, Parker Hannifin, Industrial Automotive Components, CVG, Hyundai, Mercedes, Anniston Army Depot, North American Bus Industries, Solutia, and Doncasters. Further, many employers have established relationships with the program, which provides opportunities for JSU students to gain cooperative education experience as they pursue the degree program.

Marbut says the new equipment will be more like that used in automated manufacturing plants. Faculty members and students will program the devices to paint, weld and prepare metal for production.

“It will help the students tremendously. When they step out into their job as an engineer in [the] industry, they will already have experience with the exact type of equipment [that they will use in the workforce],” he explains.

It is anticipated that the bid process to purchase the equipment will begin this summer.

“We will incorporate the development of the robotic cells into our courses to provide valuable, practical experiences for our students,” says Marbut. “The plan is to develop several robotic cells with each cell designed for a specific industrial application. This process will take time but will provide our students with enhanced learning experiences.”

Beyond the benefit of a transformative technological learning environment for JSU students, the industrial robotic cells purchased with the grant money will be available to K-12 teachers participating in the Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) initiative. STEM introduces K-12 students to careers in these fields. JSU offers professional development for K-12 teachers and gives them opportunities to demonstrate the career pathways through robotics integrated into the curriculum.

Another positive result of the grant will be enhancement of JSU’s ability to fulfill its service mission to manufacturing industries in the region. JSU will create a test bed for future projects relating to robotic systems, which manufacturers in the region may utilize to develop and test potential design modifications in robotic processes in a non-productive environment, thereby minimizing downtime.

Julia Segars, vice president of Alabama Power’s Eastern Division, says the grant is part of the company’s commitment to preparing students for future success.

“Connecting students with technology means connecting them with opportunity and preparing graduates to meet the current and future needs of manufacturing industries in our region. Alabama Power believes in the power of education and its role in propelling us into the future, and we are delighted to partner with JSU in this effort.”

RANDY AND DEBRA JONES SCHOLARSHIP

BY SHELBY DELAP

While attending Jacksonville State University in the seventies, Randy Jones didn't exactly have it easy. At times he worked as a carpenter's and plumber's assistant. He took most of his classes at night because he worked during the days. Randy graduated with a Bachelor of Science in marketing in 1976 and Debra followed soon after in 1982 earning a Bachelor of Science in accounting.

Jones is the principal agent of Randy Jones & Associates, Inc. and currently serves as a member of the JSU Board of Trustees. He and his wife attribute their success to earning their degrees. "It all starts with education," he says. Jones emphasized that this is not just a scholarship for a strong academic achiever; he hopes that the funding will go to deserving students with drive, "not necessarily for someone who got a 32 on their ACT and has a 4.0 GPA."

DAVE AND SUE BELCHER SCHOLARSHIP

BY SHELBY DELAP

This February saw a moment of marked generosity: an endowed scholarship to Jacksonville State University from Dave and Sue Belcher. After coming to Jacksonville from Roanoke, Dave originally planned to transfer to Auburn after two years. He soon realized the opportunities that Jacksonville State presented and decided to stay. As a student, Belcher was involved in the Baptist Campus Ministry, ROTC, played football, and served as president of the Student Government Association. He graduated from the College of Education in 1959. Since then, the Belchers have had a history of supporting academia. Dave currently serves as a trustee at Samford University. He and his wife, Sue, reside in Birmingham where they own a business.

Reflecting on his life in Jacksonville and meeting his lifelong love, Sue, Dave Belcher said that he realized, "this is where

The Randy and Debra Jones Annual Scholarship provides $25,000 a year for the next two years for scholarships for promising students with financial need who are transferring to JSU from Gadsden State Community College, Snead State Community College or Northeast Alabama Community College. Randy and Debra have also made plans to leave their legacy at JSU through a $1,000,000 estate gift.

Dr. Charles Lewis, executive director of the JSU Foundation, Inc., says "Randy and Debra have been enthusiastic supporters of JSU and especially the students from their region who attend here. Their gift for transfer scholarships will encourage students from area community colleges to achieve their dream of obtaining a four-year degree at JSU. Additionally, the Jones' estate gift will join with other such gifts in the decades to come, providing the enhanced private funding that will assure the university prospers in the future."

I need[ed] to be. We've enjoyed Samford, but JSU is our love. It was time to try to do something special."

The Belchers established an endowed scholarship at the Jacksonville State University Foundation with very open and generous terms, reflecting their wish to help underprivileged students of all backgrounds. The gift may be given to undergraduate or graduate students who maintain a 3.0 grade point average. It is preferred that applicants be U.S. citizens who are residents of Alabama.

Dr. Charles Lewis, executive director of the JSU Foundation, Inc. says, "We are very grateful that Dave and Sue Belcher have chosen to make such a wonderful gift to the university. Through their generosity they have created a legacy at JSU that will provide financial assistance to future students who may not have been able to attend JSU without the Belchers' direct investment in their lives."

Athletic-Scholarship Endowment

The Gamecock Athletic Department currently provides more than 300 scholarships for men’s and women’s athletics. While we were successful in meeting and surpassing our original goal of $1M for the scholarship program, there remains an ongoing need for additional funding to support our athletic program. Scholarships may be endowed through cash contributions, securities, appreciated stocks, real estate and planned giving. Earnings from the Athletic Scholarship Endowment provide support for the overall athletics department. Our contributors are playing a significant role in reducing the financial burden on the university for our athletic program. We appreciate very much the following people who have made current or planned gifts of at least $50,000 in support of JSU’s Athletic Scholarship Endowment.

Making a Difference

This Honor Roll of Contributors lists the names of alumni, friends, and businesses who made outright gifts or payments on pledges to JSU during 2013. Many of the names in this Honor Roll appear for the first time. Others have been recognized in past Honor Rolls for their financial support.

Each donor plays an important role in helping make JSU an even better place to study, learn, and prepare for life’s great challenges.

Donor support is greatly appreciated. Reviewing the names in this Honor Roll may even bring back warm memories of people with whom supporters have shared some very special times.

Those who did not make a contribution to the JSU Foundation during 2013 are encouraged to do so during 2014. Remember, “The building of a great university is a task which is never complete. Each generation shoulders the responsibility to continue the effort.”

Major Dwayne Williams Memorial Scholarship 2013-2014 Student Recipient

Emerald Padgett of Dallas, Ga., says that four years ago she came to JSU as an undecided major to run cross country and fell in love with the campus. “The quality students and outstanding faculty, especially in the ROTC and ESW departments, have made my college experience more than I could have hoped for.” After running on the cross country team for three years, Emerald is now a member of the ROTC Ranger Challenge team. She plans to request an education delay from the military in order to continue on to graduate school in preparation to become an active duty physical therapist in the army.

Is Your Name Missing?

Listed in this report to donors are all contributions made during 2013 to Jacksonville State University through the JSU Foundation, the fundraising arm of the university. Every effort has been made to verify names for accuracy and completeness. If your name is not included and you think it should be, the following may explain the omission.

1. You made your gift prior to January 1, 2013, or after December 31, 2013.

2. You made a pledge instead of a gift. This listing includes only gifts received. If you made a pledge during 2013 but elected not to begin payment on it until after December 31, 2013, you will be listed on next year's Honor Roll.

3. We goofed. Even though the listings were checked and rechecked, mistakes could have been made. We humbly apologize in advance. If you have questions, please contact the JSU Foundation office at (256) 782-5306 or (800) 231-5291 extension 5306 so we can recheck our records and make the necessary corrections. Our e-mail address is jsufnd@jsu.edu.

LUKE HAGGERTY, Senior - Accounting
Robert Trathen Memorial Scholarship 2013-2014 Student Recipient

Luke Haggerty of Stuart, Fla., came to JSU to play football for the Gamecocks. Unfortunately a shoulder injury ended his playing career after two years on the team. Since then, he has found other avenues of involvement, including a stint as president of the Student Accounting Association and an internship at a local CPA firm. His future plans include earning a master’s degree in accounting, passing the CPA exam, and eventually starting his own CPA firm.

Ways of Giving to the JSU Foundation

Ways of giving to the Jacksonville State University Foundation are listed below. If you have questions, please call the JSU Foundation office at (256) 782-5306 or (800) 231-5291 extension 5306, or send an e-mail to jsufnd@jsu.edu.

CURRENT GIFTS

Cash:
Checks ensure donors a proper record of their contributions. Make checks payable to the Jacksonville State University Foundation. The JSU Foundation will provide receipts, which may be required by the IRS.

Securities:
Investment-grade stocks and bonds that have increased in value make excellent gifts, providing the securities have been held for the required period of time.

Real Estate:
Property that has appreciated in value makes an excellent gift because the full value of the gift is deductible by the donor, and the donor's profit will not be taxable as a capital gain.

DEFERRED GIFTS

Life Insurance:
The cash surrender value of a life insurance policy is normally immediately tax deductible, and later gifts made to pay the premiums will also be deductible. More importantly, donors have the satisfaction of providing the Jacksonville State University Foundation with a more sizable gift.

Trust and Annuities:
Cash, marketable securities, or real property may be used to establish a charitable trust or annuity from which the donor would receive income for life. Upon his/her death, the assets would go to the Jacksonville State University Foundation. There are favorable income tax, capital gains tax, and estate tax treatments for such gifts.

Bequest:
The JSU Foundation has been fortunate to receive several major gifts in the form of bequests. This is a simple, inexpensive way to leave a legacy as well as an excellent way of possibly reducing your estate taxes. Your bequest can be directed toward a specific purpose, such as establishing a scholarship fund that will benefit deserving students.

Note: All gifts to the Jacksonville State University Foundation are tax deductible to the extent allowable by law.
