

Imagining the Holocaust
Classroom & Teaching Circle Grants
Department of English at Jacksonville State University

Classroom Grant

Middle and high school teachers are encouraged to apply for classroom grants to provide them with the resources they need to teach the Holocaust, which may include, but is not limited to, the purchase of classroom materials, funds for educational field trips for students, participation in conferences, or enrollment in educational programs. Teachers will use the grant as they wish to better enable them to teach the Holocaust and its literature. If awarded a grant, teachers will guarantee their students' participation in the Imagining the Holocaust writing contest. These grants may only be used for tangible materials. The number of classroom grants to be awarded is to be determined by the number of proposals, the amounts requested, and our yearly budget for the program.

- Each proposal should include the following information:
 - Name, discipline, and school
 - Student learning outcomes & benefits
 - A description of how the funds will be directed toward teaching the Holocaust and encouraging students to produce entries for the Imagining the Holocaust writing contest in one or more categories
 - The requested amount: Level 1 ($401-$600); Level 2 ($201-$400); Level 3 ($1-$200)
 - A line-item budget of how the funds will be used

Teaching Circle Grant

To encourage interdisciplinary collaboration among teachers and active learning approaches to teaching the Holocaust, we are offering teaching circle grants. Each circle must consist of at least three and no more than five teachers. Teachers will use their grants as they wish to better enable them to teach Holocaust history. If awarded a grant, all participating teachers will guarantee their students' participation in the Imagining the Holocaust writing contest. The total grant will be split among members of the circle as requested. Two teaching circle grants of $1,500 will be awarded: one middle school teaching circle and one high school teaching circle. These grants may only be used for tangible materials.

- Each proposal should include the following information:
 - Names of members of the circle, discipline of each, and the school
 - Student learning outcomes & benefits
 - A description of how the funds will be directed toward encouraging students to produce entries for the Holocaust writing contest in one or more categories
 - A line-item budget of how the funds will be used and how the funds will be dispersed among the members of the circle.

Deadline for classroom and teaching circle grant proposals is February 1 each year. See our website for submission details: <https://www.jsu.edu/english/holocaust/>
