Honors Lecture - 22057 - UH 101 - 002

Using the phenomenon of "Fake News" and related concepts (the role of experts, manipulation of statistics, scientific data, and etc.) as a springboard, we will explore the history of this phenomenon from origins to the current day. We will also explore strategies for evaluation and analysis of information sources across a broad spectrum of media. The intended outcome for the class is for students to become more mindful and considerate information consumers.

Honors Book Club - 22059 - UH 202 - 002

Take a step back in time to unearth the past through popular fiction to learn about different decades and bring history alive once more. This class will focus on three popular fiction books, spanning different issues of a decade of the 20th Century. Students will vote on what decade and books the class will cover. This class will discuss the books through a historical lens and will focus on issues and influences of the decade that impacted the development of the book and society. Students will also participate in a service-learning project in the form of chronicling local history through a brief, 10-15-minute oral history interview, focusing on the decade of their chosen book. The ultimate goal of the class is to help students have a greater, more realistic understanding of their chosen decade and its influence on our society today.

Honors Book Club - 22718 - UH 202 - 003

Extra! Extra! Read All About It! This course will explore hundreds of "underground" newspapers which were created by Vietnam-Era counterculture youth during 1965-1974 and sold on street corners in all regions of the United States. Students will become familiar with protest literature published in alternative "rags" such as the East Village Other, The Great Speckled Bird, the Berkeley Barb, the San Francisco Oracle, and hundreds more. Some of the topics heavily covered in these papers are Civil Rights, Women's Liberation, the American Indian Movement, LGBT rights, the New Left, the Environmental Movement, Communal living, "hippie" lifestyle, sex, drugs, rock n' roll, the rise of underground comix, and anti-war demonstrations. Students will utilize the Underground Press Syndicate's (UPS) Underground Newspaper Collection which includes over 800 newspapers created by young people during the 1960s. While the topics studied are very liberal, no political viewpoints are in any way promoted.

Honors Special Topics: Interdisciplinary - 22749 - UH 300 - 001

This course studies the creation, use, and consumption of mass media through multiple mediums in the public sphere. Students examine the relationship between forms of government and the press, public vs. private media models, the processes and routines of news organizations, how political campaigns engage with the media, ways political institutions use the media, and where Americans get their news from. Through historical, large-N, case studies, and experimental evidence, students gain an understanding of how politics and the news connects to their daily lives. This includes connecting the course materials to contemporary local, national, and world stories during the course.
