William Stewart is Professor and Chair of the Political Science Department at the University of Alabama where he is also Director of the Doctor of Public Administration Program. He holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Alabama. He has taught courses in Alabama politics, American politics and public policy and administration. He has presented numerous papers at state and national conferences, published many articles in journals, and has authored nine books, including Alabama Government and Politics and The Growth of State Administration in Alabama. He writes a weekly newspaper column in which events from the 1890's are regularly identified and put in contemporary perspective.

This program is made possible by the Alabama Humanities Foundation (AHF), the state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. The AHF brings scholars and the public together to explore human values and meanings through the study of history, literature, religion, philosophy and other humanities disciplines.
