Research Currently in Progress

"Dress Like Me: An Exploration of Social Work Graduate Intern Attire" (Writing Results).

"Student Perceptions of the Social Work Profession" (On-Going).

There are limited studies on students' understanding of the social work profession. This information can be utilized in practice by helping social workers to understand how their profession is perceived by the general public. Not only the general public, but policy makers must first understand the profession in order to generate legislation that is congruent with social work values and the profession. In addition, social work education programs can utilize this information to create course which are in-line with student interests and perhaps grow their programs, thereby growing the profession.
