Funding Opportunity Number:

DOS-LONDON-PD-2019-CA-018

Purpose: The Embassy of the United States in London invites eligible organizations to submit proposals to develop and implement a small grants program to foster American studies in the United Kingdom through exchanges, speaker programs, and conferences. Initiatives should be designed to promote a more accurate and positive image of the United States. Strictly subject to the availability of funds, the Embassy of the United States in London expects to select one program implementer for a grant award up to $150,000.

In this solicitation, the Embassy of the United States in London seeks proposals to develop and administer a small grants program to support the study of the United States in the United Kingdom in primary and secondary schools and universities. The grants program should:

- Encourage more demand for the pursuit of American studies as a specialized field of study;*
- Seek to promote American studies as a field of study among women and within black, Asian, and minority ethnic (BAME) communities and schools;*
- Recruit for and spread awareness of American studies as a field of study for primary and secondary school students, with a focus on diversity;*
- Encourage work in the field of American studies across academic societies and within universities;*
- Support program activities throughout the United Kingdom, particularly outside of London.*

Proposals should outline how the program implementer will manage, administer, and evaluate projects through small grants up to $15,000 or its equivalent in pounds sterling. Proposals should also define an award selection process based on merit, geographic and thematic diversity, feasibility of proposed programs, impact to beneficiaries, monitoring and evaluation techniques, project sustainability, and cultivation of lasting and productive relationships between participants from the United States and the United Kingdom. Ideally, the most competitive proposal would dedicate the largest portion of the budget to the small grants segment.

Applicants must have the demonstrated experience and ability to provide guidance to and monitor projects that would focus on building a more accurate understanding of the United States to include:

- Faculty development and exchange;
- Non-partisan programming on the 2020 U.S. election;
- Curriculum development at all education levels, especially primary and secondary levels;
- Student exchanges;
- Speaker programs;
- Film or other arts programming; and
- Conferences.

National Science Foundation - Critical Aspects of Sustainability

Proposal Due Date:

Funding Opportunity Number:

PD-19-9102

Purpose: Economic development and human progress have led to a proliferation of manufactured chemicals and materials made from limited resources found in nature (i.e., minerals and metals, petroleum-based products and natural gas). Long-term sustainability requires consideration of the availability of specific natural resources, energy, and water usage. NSF continues to support efforts that seek to improve the efficiency with which natural resources are used to meet human needs for products and services. Sustainability research encompasses the design, manufacture and use of efficient, effective, safe and more environmentally-benign products and processes; stimulates innovation across all sectors to design and discover new chemicals and materials, production processes, and product stewardship practices; and, increases performance and value while meeting the goals of protecting and enhancing human health and the environment.

This program seeks to support basic research through core disciplinary programs aimed at improving the sustainability of resources for future generations while maintaining or improving current products in order to offer technologically-advanced, economically competitive, environmentally-benign and useful materials to a global society. In order to address these challenges, the program aims to identify opportunities for innovation in a wide range of contributing disciplines as well as integrative activities. This program encourages the development of new experimental and theoretical/modeling approaches that will aid in both reductionist and whole-systems approaches.

This program welcomes proposals in any area of research supported through the participating divisions that address the topics outlined below. The selected topics are of particular interest to core disciplinary programs in the participating divisions and do not include all funding opportunities and priorities in the area or sustainability at NSF. Proposals are submitted to the relevant core Programs indicated below in the participating Divisions, and all questions regarding proposals should be addressed by the cognizant Program Officers to which submission is contemplated. Proposals should be submitted with the "CAS:" prefix in the title.
